Central Valley CSD Foundation to host Cabin Fever Bingo

The Central Valley Central School District Foundation will hold a "Cabin Fever" prize bingo event on Sunday, March 1 at 2 p.m. at the Crowley-Barnum American Legion Post 25 in Mohawk.

"We are excited to offer a fun event that will give people the chance to get out of the house at the end of a long winter," said Molly Bonnell, foundation publicity chair. "It's a great way to spend an afternoon with family and friends while also supporting the students in our district."

Admission is $10 per person, with the opportunity to purchase more bingo boards at the door. The event will feature 10 games and will include prizes such as gift cards, electronics and more. A variety of food items will also be available for sale.

Bonnell urges anyone who is interested in attending the event to purchase tickets ahead of time.

"We want to be sure everyone is comfortable, so we are limiting the event to 200 people," she said. "Our last bingo event quickly sold out, so we are really encouraging everyone to get their tickets early."

Advance sale tickets are available from any foundation member or by calling Foundation President JoAnn Duga at 315.894.3116.

PUZZLE CARD

CARD B

One of the words in card B really belongs in card A. Can you figure out which one it is? The illustration is a hint.

The word is Pet. If you precede each word on Card A with the word CAR, you get four new words: Carbide, carhop, carmine, carport. Thus, pet would become carpet.

A CUTTING PROBLEM! Can you come up with a word that can be divided into five separate words? Hint: The word we came up with concerns the villain's actions toward the hero in literature.

The word is ANTAGONISTIC; AN TAG ON IS TIC.

LINKUPS! Here's a list of 12 one-syllable words, divided into two columns. Turn them into six longer words by linking them. To do this, draw a line from one word in the left column to one word in the right.

Garbage, fobbed, haddock, kindled, leeward, impeach.

Seven ways to start getting organized

Becoming more organized is a popular resolution each new year. However, like many resolutions, people's commitment to being more organized tends to wane as February draws near.

Being unorganized can adversely affect productivity, state of mind, motivation and even happiness. Sixty-seven percent of people surveyed in an Alpha Phi Quarterly study believed they could save up to 30 minutes a day if they were more organized. And a Huffington Post survey determined worrying a home isn't clean enough or organized enough is the fifth most common stress trigger for Americans.

Getting and staying organized requires commitment. Having some handy tips at the ready to facilitate the process can make things go more smoothly.

1. Determine what organization means to you. Being organized might mean one thing to you and something else entirely to someone else. Some may put form before function. Others may be interested in the aesthetics of a neat-looking space. Once you have a handle on what being organized entails to you, you can get to work.

2. Start with what motivates you most. Perhaps this is a room in the home that has become overrun with clutter. Or maybe it's getting finances organized so you can save for a dream vacation. When you accomplish your biggest goal, the seemingly smaller ones may seem less difficult.

3. Declutter your mind. Think of a busy mind as a computer that has that turning hourglass or spinning color wheel icon when it's stuck on a process. Every application stalls because the computer cannot do everything at once. The same thing can happen in the brain. Sit down and make a to-do list of what's on your mind. Then start prioritizing tasks. This will do wonders to clear your head.

4. Create deadlines for yourself. An open-ended timeline to get things done may promote procrastination. Deadlines may provide motivation.

5. Avoid distractions. Try to remove as many distractions as possible. When working on a chore, hire a babysitter to look after the children or step away from social media so you can focus on the task at hand. Interruptions only slow you down.

6. Think before you acquire. Once you are organized you may have challenges fitting new items into the mix. If you're getting ready to purchase something new, carefully consider its usefulness and determine in advance where it will go, and whether or not you have the space.

7. Be accountable to another. Having help getting organized can mean delegating certain tasks or enlisting someone to check in with you to see if you're on target. Embrace this system of checks and balances.

Becoming organized is a process, but once you get the hang of it, it can be easy to stay organized.

Arc Herkimer now offering home-based behavioral services

Arc Herkimer is now offering home-based behavioral services to local families and individuals. The services are time-limited and provide resources that will help families stay together as a unit for as long as possible.

In order to qualify for these services, an individual must be OPWDD eligible and live at home with family. Additionally, the individual must present substantial behavioral concerns that put them at imminent risk of placement into a more restrictive living environment.

There is no age limit and the services are free to the family. The services begin with behavioral assessments in the home that help develop behavioral support plans and specific training approaches for the family. Arc Herkimer named Rome Community Partner of the Year

Arc Herkimer was named Rome Community Partner of the Year at the 149th Annual Meeting for the YMCA of the Greater Tri-Valley. The award recognizes Arc Herkimer's STEPS program, within the agency's Career Connections division, for their volunteer work at the Rome YMCA.

STEPS - "Supportive Trainings and Education: A Plan for Success" - aims to support people with disabilities throughout their journey of community integration and service. A large part of the program includes volunteering at various places in the region, like the Rome YMCA. STEPS groups assist with a whole range of general operational tasks which helps them learn skills while fostering community relationships.

When asked what this award means for the STEPS program, Career Connections Director Catherine Loomis said, "The individuals who take part in STEPS work extremely hard to provide help throughout the community, and to promote social acceptance of people with disabilities. Being honored with this award not only boosts their confidence, but also increases awareness of their abilities, not their disabilities."

STEPS is just one of several programs that Arc Herkimer Career Connections offers.

Kovels: Antiques and Collecting

by Terry and Kim Kovel

Clobbered porcelain

The English word “clobbered” has been used since at least the 1600s, but its meaning has changed. It still means beaten up, badly injured or damaged. But the word had a very different meaning in the 1700s. It describes porcelain dishes or ornaments with blue-and-white underglaze decoration that were altered. And in an auction catalog or antiques display, the clobbered alterations are not bad and not damaging, but enhancing, and not a reason to pay a lower price.

The Chinese made most of the blue-and-white pieces in the late 1700s to early 1800s. They were shipped to many countries and overpainted with colored glazes because the public would pay more for colored urns or dishes. The decorations did not follow the blue-and-white outlines of the original glaze, but were applied as new pictures and ornamental designs over the old glaze. The English did the same overglaze decorating, but many thought it was damaged, not improved. The Germans called it “schwarzlot” (blackish) decoration.

A pair of “Chinese Export clobbered porcelain vases” were sold at a New Orleans auction for $5,750. Clobbering in green, pink, yellow and copper red in the mid-1800s has added to its value today.

Q: Wouldn't spoons made in the 1800s be worth more than the silver meltdown price? What makes sterling silver flatware eligible to be called “museum quality”?

A: Most old silver flatware is no longer popular and doesn't sell well. People don't want to bother cleaning silver. It needs to be washed by hand, polished regularly and stored properly in order to avoid tarnish, scratches and dents. It shouldn't be put in the dishwasher with stainless steel or other metal flatware. Certain foods, rubber, felt, wool, oak and some types of paint will cause silver to tarnish. Silver flatware should be stored in special flannel bags or chests lined with tarnish-resistant flannel. Storing silver in plastic wrap or newspapers, or in cardboard boxes, causes it to discolor.

Sterling silver has a “meltdown value,” the cash price of the amount of silver the piece contains. “Museum quality” is whatever the museum decides it wants to include in exhibits as interesting art, design or history. Even the name of a famous or early maker doesn't guarantee the piece is of great value. Best sellers include Tiffany, Georg Jensen and some top-of-the-line Gorham.

Current prices

- Creamer, porcelain, pink and brown border, company monogram, marked, Ellerman Lines, 1900s, 3 3/4 inches, $25.
- Basket, purse, lightship, scrimshaw lid plaque, Nantucket style, signed, 7 x 9 inches, $125.
- Tazza, bronze, gilt, cat, owl, arabesque, leaves, vines, berries, Antoine-Louis Barye, 7 1/4 x 6 1/2 inches, $170.
- Fireplace, andiron, brass, steeple finial, ball, scrolling legs, ball feet, 22 inches, pair, $480.

Tip: If a white powder forms on a piece made of lead, or glasses or pottery decorated with a lead glaze, immediately remove the piece from your house. The powder is poisonous. Consult an expert conservator if it is valuable and should be saved. Do the ecologically correct thing if you must dispose of the piece.

Donna's Day: Creative family fun

by Donna Erickson

Use salt to paint a wintry watercolor

Let it snow, wherever you live, with this colorful watercolor art project your young kids will enjoy indoors on a wintry day this month. Grains of salt sprinkled over watercolor drawings mimic snowflakes to change your budding artist's landscape drawing.

While the watercolor paint is still wet, a sprinkle of salt creates dimension and transforms the look of the painting to a snowy winter scene. When young children explore and create with this salty technique, the activity is bounded only by their imagination.

Here's the stuff you'll need:

- Watercolor or heavy art paper
- Small brush
- Water in a small dish
- Washable watercolor paint cakes in a tin such as Crayola brand, or watercolors that come in tubes that you dilute with water
- Inexpensive table salt and/or kosher salt

Here's the fun:

Paint a picture with the watercolor paints. While the paint is still wet, lightly sprinkle salt here and there or over chosen portions of the painting. As it absorbs the paint, it creates little crystal-like designs. Let dry completely. Rub or shake off loose salt.

Encourage your painter to sign the art. Frame and display.

To make a scene of wintry bare trees using masking tape:

First, grab some scissors and masking tape. Cut thin and thick strips from the masking tape for a tree or trees, and adhere to a plain sheet of watercolor paper. Start with a wide strip for the trunk and add thinner strips off the sides for the branches. You might want to cut pieces to make a circle for a sun or full moon to tape near the top of the paper. Cut in a sliver for a half moon.

Use salt on your painting to create an interesting effect.

Paint over the paper using natural wintry colors. Sprinkle some salt over the paint while still wet. Let dry completely.

Shake off loose salt and carefully remove the tape to reveal the trees, sun/moon or whatever you created. It's always a moment of surprise!

Mount Markham begins superintendent search following retirement announcement

WEST WINFIELD – The Mount Markham Central School District has launched a search for a new superintendent of schools following a recent announcement by Superintendent Paul Berry that he will be resigning and retiring as of July 31.

Berry formally announced his intentions in a Jan. 7 letter to the Mount Markham Board of Education. In the letter, Berry, who has been the Mount Markham superintendent since November 2015, thanked past and present board members, school administration, faculty, staff, students, parents and community members.

“It has been an honor to serve and become a member of this school community,” Berry said in the letter.

Herkimer-Fulton-Hamilton-Otsego

BOCES District Superintendent Sandra Sherwood is leading the superintendent search on behalf of the Mount Markham Board of Education. The superintendent search brochure and application are available at www.herkimer-boces.org and will soon be added to www.mmcsd.org.

The deadline to apply is Feb. 14. Initial interviews and selection of candidates will take place from February to March. Board of Education and stakeholder interviews are expected to occur in March and April, leading to a final decision by the board.

It’s anticipated that the new superintendent will start on Aug. 1, stepping in the day after Berry leaves the position.

How to combat dementia and memory loss

Alzheimer’s Disease International says that there were approximately 50 million people living with dementia in 2017. Experts predict that number will roughly double every 20 years, highlighting just how pervasive dementia is across the globe.

Dementia describes symptoms affecting memory, thinking and social abilities. The Mayo Clinic says dementia can become so severe that it interferes with daily life. Alzheimer’s disease is the most common cause of progressive dementia, though there are other causes as well. Dementias can result from frontotemporal lobar degenerations, vascular disorders, Parkinson’s disease and Lewy Body disease.

Depending on the cause, some dementia symptoms may be reversible. For example, medical professionals have discovered a link between insulin resistance and the development of dementia. Insulin resistance, which results from eating too many carbs and sugar and not enough fat, is a major factor that contributes to Alzheimer’s disease, according to The Women’s Alzheimer’s Movement. Some scientists now refer to Alzheimer’s as “Type 3 diabetes.” Cutting out sugar and refined carbs and adding lots of good fats may prevent and even reverse pre-dementia in many aging adults.

Using an animal model, researchers at Temple University Health System discovered that a drug blocking inflammatory molecules known as leukotrienes can reverse tau pathology, the second most important lesion in the brain in patients with Alzheimer’s. This can bring hope that medication may help reverse Alzheimer’s instead of just mitigating symptoms.

Other ways to prevent or reverse dementias involve preventing the brain pathology that occurs. For example, reducing the risk of stroke can prevent vascular dementias. Dementia risks linked to infections and immune disorders may be lowered by making dietary changes or taking appropriate medications for conditions.

The Mayo Clinic also says nutritional deficiencies, such as dehydration and not getting enough vitamins B1, B6 and B12, can cause dementia-type symptoms. Dementias linked to heavy metal poisoning also may be resolved with treatment.

In addition, people can take proactive approaches to preventing aging of the brain even if they aren’t yet suffering cognitive decline. A proactive approach can include:

- Getting adequate sleep
- Controlling stress levels
- Getting thyroid and reproductive hormone levels checked and treated, if necessary
- Exercising daily, aiming for at least 30 minutes
- Eating healthy fats like omega-3 fatty acids, which are found in fatty fish, coconut oil, olive oil, whole nuts, eggs and some seeds
- Reducing consumption of sugar and processed carbohydrates

Combatting dementia can involve an array of strategies aimed at helping people reduce their risk and possibly even reverse course.

As temperatures drop, check tire pressure more often (NAPSI) – You may notice, when the weather turns colder, the tire pressure monitoring system (TPMS) light on your dashboard lights up more frequently. The Car Care Council recommends checking your tire pressure regularly during the winter to help keep the TPMS light off and your vehicle safe.

“It’s typical at this time of year for motorists to get TPMS warnings and then get worried about their tires,” said Rich White, executive director, Car Care Council. “Often drivers will see this in the morning when it’s coldest. If the temperature warms, the light could turn off but it’s likely that tires will still be a few pounds per square inch (PSI) under-inflated. This is why it’s important to check tire pressure regularly.”

According to the U.S. Tire Manufacturers Association, for every 10 degree drop in temperature, tire pressure decreases one to two PSI. Checking the tire pressure is important for vehicle safety, tire life and gas mileage.

Incorrect tire pressure can lower gas mileage by 0.3% for every one PSI drop in pressure of all four tires and improve fuel efficiency by up to 3.3% when the correct tire pressure is maintained.

“Tire pressure should be checked at least monthly. It is important to note that newer cars with tire pressure monitoring systems may not alert you until the tire is significantly under-inflated, so you may want to check it more frequently,” said White. “It is important to check tire pressure whenever there is a significant weather change and more often during the winter months.”

The Car Care Council is the source of information for the “Be Car Care Aware” consumer education campaign promoting the benefits of regular vehicle care, maintenance and repair to consumers.

Preventative maintenance more important as vehicles age

The average age of vehicles on the road is rising, and as cars get older, they need more service and repair. The non-profit Car Care Council recommends that motorists who own an older car, truck or SUV become more diligent about preventative maintenance.

“With the average vehicle age exceeding 11.5 years, the chance of a breakdown or service issue on an older vehicle is much greater,” said Rich White, executive director, Car Care Council. “The Car Care Council urges drivers of older vehicles to implement a preventative maintenance plan for their vehicle to minimize the chances of a roadside breakdown and to also help their vehicle run more efficiently and economically.”

According to Experian Automotive, the average age of passenger vehicles on the road is rising, up from 11.29 years in the first quarter of 2015 to 11.61 years in 2019. The most common maintenance procedures to keep a car operating safely and reliably while maintaining its long-term value, involve checking the oil, filters and fluids, the belts and hoses, brakes, tires and air conditioning. An annual tune-up and wheel alignment are also recommended.

The Car Care Council offers a free custom service schedule and email reminder service. This simple-to-use online resource can be personalized to help busy car owners prioritize auto care while making it more convenient and economical.

In addition, the council’s popular Car Care Guide for motorists is available electronically or printed copy in English and Spanish. The guide covers major services, component groups within the vehicle, service interval recommendations and much more.

The Car Care Council is the source of information for the “Be Car Care Aware” consumer education campaign promoting the benefits of regular vehicle care, maintenance and repair to consumers. For the latest car care news, visit the council’s online media room at media.carcare.org.
