INCREASING YIELD & EFFICIENCY

DO YOU NEED A MOWER THAT WON'T BREAK DOWN IF USED HARD?

New mower, no name. This one is just going on the drawing board.

- Keeps the wilderness from creeping into your fields
- Chews through brush and small saplings
- Has a stump-jumper bottom

THE GRASS FARMER'S DREAM MACHINE

The PASTURE HIPPO is in the final phase of Research and Development. Five units are being tested this year. Now taking orders for five more in 2022.

*Cannot lock in 2021 pricing.

Ike: Hey John. How is your grazing operation going in the North?

John: More challenging than I expected. The growing season is strong, but short. I'll have plenty, then none. I need a full line of hay equipment and draft horses to harvest excess, but then horses end up eating most of it in winter.

Ike: I understand your frustration. Maybe mules wouldn't eat it all. It's important to manage grass. If it's not cut at the correct stage it will not yield as much.

John: Even if I had time to focus on my cows during the grass rush, I could have more profits to buy hay in the winter.

Ike: Hey John, I got it! Our cousins David & Abner from Suplee Hollow Machine came up with the mower for you. Sell your hay equipment and draft horses. You can pull this mower with your general purpose horse. Make sure you clip grass at the best time. Focus on your cows. Buy hay for winter time. This mower has an ESM - I & J cutter bar that can be adjusted to cut grass at 4-12" heights. Optimal cutting heights promotes better regrowth. It will save on your hay bill if you can have good grass stands into November.

John: Wow, I'm getting excited about trying that. I could sell my hay equipment and invest in my grass operation. I'll have enough money to buy more fencing and cows. What else do those boys make?

Ike: They make a rotary mower in different sizes. It's aptly called Grass Hippo. A real grass eating machine. It's used to keep weeds down in the meadows or even as a finish mower in folks yards. The 7'6" is the most popular size.

THE GRASS EATING MACHINE

- Clean cut = Faster regrowth
- Chops up weeds into mulch
- Multi use — from high weeds to finish mowing in the yard
- The Grass Hippo is in production and available in seven different models.

Imagine if your cows lasted two lactations longer on average, giving them the opportunity to reach their maximum potential.

- Average dairy cow in the U.S. = 2.4 lactations
- Maximum milk production = 4th and 5th lactation
- When your herd age increases, so does your profitability.
- That's why we focus on longevity, selecting bulls from long-lived profitable cow families.

Profitability is found through longevity.

- Driven by actual results
- Deep cow families
- Balanced matings
- Proven genetics
- Functional cows
- A2/A2 options
- Polled genetics
- Reasonable prices
